General Comment

I want to object to the proposed rule that would deny our right to trade options in an IRA. There is a very well established way to use options to REDUCE risk and make a very nice return on the money committed to this technique.

I have used this technique since about January of 2015 and am pleased with the result.

Its about time to stop trying to control investors in a misguided effort to PROTECT them. Actually, you are simply restricting their freedom.

I am now years old and a retired financial planner of 30 years experience so I think I can decide for myself if and when to use any given technique.

Thank you
